

NEWMAN'S OWN FOUNDATION

2016 Nutrition Grantees

American Indian Cancer Foundation (Minneapolis, MN) runs a Healthy Native Foods Initiative to help address the tremendous cancer inequities faced by American Indian and Alaska Native communities.

Broad Community Connections (New Orleans, LA) operates the ReFresh Project, a community health hub in New Orleans that delivers fresh food access, nutrition education, urban farming, and much more.

Center for Rural Affairs (Lyons, NE) helps rural gardeners to produce their own food through Growing Our Own: Expanding Fresh Food Access through Gardening in Native and New American Communities.

City Green (Clifton, NJ) brings fresh produce to underserved urban neighborhoods in northern New Jersey with its Veggie Mobile.

Common Ground (New Haven, CT) operates an Urban Farm at the Common Ground School and shares its harvest through a mobile farm market, sliding scale CSA, free school lunches, and farm stands.

Common Threads (Austin, TX) provides hands-on healthy cooking and nutrition programs year-round, both in and out of school, while engaging the whole family to create a culture of wellness.

Community Foodworks (Washington, DC) operates a network of farmers markets to improve food distribution to low-income communities in the greater DC area.

Daily Table (Boston, MA) is making surplus nutritious foods available from supermarkets, growers, manufacturers, and distributors, to low-income communities, starting in the Boston area.

Dakota Rural Action (Brookings, SD) reduces barriers to healthy food access in school lunch programs through its Farm to School program.

Edible Schoolyard New Orleans (New Orleans, LA) is a project of FirstLine Schools that runs classes and events to empower both children and families to make positive health choices.

Edible Schoolyard New York (Brooklyn, NY) operates Demonstration Schools in NYC with garden and kitchen classes for pre-K-8th grade, plus farm stands, family cooking classes, community days, and more.

Farm Fresh Rhode Island (Pawtucket, RI) runs the Healthy Foods Healthy Families program, providing nutrition education and farmers market SNAP supplements to low-income families.

Friends of Zenger Farm (Portland, OR) is adding an international focus to its Community Kitchen, teaching culturally-specific home-gardening, cooking, and nutrition workshops.

Green Bronx Machine International (Bronx, NY) helps children improve their school performance by teaching them to grow and cook healthy food and distributing school-grown food to parents.

Green Village Initiative (Bridgeport, CT) brings locally grown food to public school cafeterias, conducts organic gardening workshops, and operates Bridgeport school and community garden programs.

NEWMAN'S OWN FOUNDATION

Healthy Acadia (Ellsworth, ME) operates the Healthy Grocery Store Initiative in rural communities of Maine, making healthy, affordable foods easier to access.

Healthy Schools Campaign (Chicago, IL) engages high school students in Cooking Up Change culinary competitions that provide information about healthy eating and careers in the culinary arts.

Hunger Free Vermont (S. Burlington, VT) equips Vermonters with the knowledge and skills to prepare meals using fresh, wholesome foods, through The Learning Kitchen.

International Rescue Committee (New York, NY) is innovating and expanding its New Roots program, helping refugees engage in community gardening, nutrition, and microenterprise programs.

Jones Valley Urban Farm (Birmingham, AL) provides food education that improves student performance while targeting long-term health disparities among the most underserved students in Birmingham.

LifeBridge Community Services (Bridgeport, CT) delivers nutrition education and fresh seasonal produce to Bridgeport's most vulnerable residents.

MoGro (Santa Fe, NM) is a project of Santa Fe Community Foundation that operates a Mobile Grocery to help eliminate barriers to affordable, healthy food for Native American Reservations in New Mexico.

National Alliance for Hispanic Health (Washington, DC) holds ¡Vive tu vida! – Get Up! Get Moving! events to support Hispanic health through health screenings, nutrition education, and physical activities.

New Haven Farms (New Haven, CT) runs a Farm-Based Wellness Program that integrates healthy food access and lifestyle interventions to address diet-related chronic disease for local residents.

Painted Desert Demonstration Projects (Flagstaff, AZ) provides a sustainability-focused curriculum for Native American students at its charter school, including gardening and greenhouse management.

Partnership with Native Americans (Rapid City, SD) trains tribal residents to maintain sustainable nutrition initiatives in their own communities, to make fresh foods more readily available.

Pike Place Market Foundation (Seattle, WA) distributes SNAP matching funds and Market Fresh coupons, delivers fresh produce, and provides nutrition education to low-income residents.

School Food Focus (New York, NY) is a project of Tides Center that helps school districts purchase more healthful, regional, and sustainable foods.

SMART (New York, NY) is an initiative of Fund for the City of New York that takes its mobile nutrition education and hands-on cooking curriculum into marginalized neighborhoods.

Stone Barns Center for Food & Agriculture (Pocantico Hills, NY) provides farm-based training for schools and camps to serve high-need school districts with programs on sustainable food and farming.

NEWMAN'S OWN FOUNDATION

The Council of Churches of Greater Bridgeport (Bridgeport, CT) makes available healthy, local fruits and vegetables to Bridgeport residents through the Bridgeport Farmers Market Collaborative.

The Food Project (Lincoln, MA) engages young people in building community gardens; growing food; preparing food for soup kitchens and shelters; and leading community programs.

The Institute for Family Health (New York, NY) is providing South Bronx bodegas with outreach, education, and technical support to help them sell healthier options in a financially sustainable way.

The New York Botanical Garden (Bronx, NY) gives Bronx residents and teachers the resources to turn open spaces into organic vegetable gardens, plant fruit trees, do composting and pruning, and more.

Thunder Valley Community Development Corporation (Porcupine, SD) is working to create a local food system for Lakota families, with a greenhouse and programs that increase access to healthy foods.

University of the South (Sewanee, TN) builds teaching gardens to enhance nutrition and help students and their families better understand the connections between good food and robust physical activity.

Zuni Youth Enrichment Project (Zuni, NM) supports a farmers market, local seed exchange, cooking demonstrations, and other programs that increase fresh food access on the Zuni Reservation.

Newman's Own Foundation Nutrition Cohort

Fair Food Network (Ann Arbor, MI) is expanding its Double Up Food Bucks program to improve access to fresh foods at grocery stores and farmers markets, while supporting local farmers.

The Food Trust (Philadelphia, PA) is building internal capacity to operate new and continuing programs that increase access to healthy food in Philadelphia and surrounding communities.

FoodCorps (New York, NY) is increasing the number of young leaders working with children to help them learn about, engage with, and gain access to healthy food.

National Farm to School Network (Chicago, IL) is expanding services to high-need areas such as tribal communities, childcare centers, food banks, and military bases.

Tufts University Friedman School of Nutrition (North Grafton, MA) is providing research assistance to lend expertise in nutrition and evaluate the Newman's Own Foundation Nutrition Cohort's impact.

Wellness in the Schools (New York, NY) is growing its Cook for Kids program in New York City and surrounding communities, working in classrooms and cafeterias to inspire healthy eating.

Wholesome Wave (Bridgeport, CT) is expanding its Double Value Coupon Program and Fruit & Vegetable Prescription Program, while studying the impacts of these programs.